

Amanda Brown

Amanda is a “ray of sunshine in the fog of relationships.” As a Relationship Expert & Dating Designer, she has helped thousands of Singles, Committed Couples and Married Couples have a better exchange of conversation, engage in a more meaningful relationship and grow personally. Through her card game, Playing the Field and book The Field Guide to Playing the Field, she helps to make relationship dreams a reality.

“I’ve never met anyone with as much positive energy as Amanda” said Andy Greider co-host of the radio show, Uniqueness is Power. “Amanda is probably one of the most riveting and most delightful people you will ever get to meet. She is passionate about what she does and that comes through in the way she handles life. There is a lot of enthusiasm and energy. She created a game, Playing the Field Card Game, one of the coolest inventions for any adult who is looking to break the ice in a dating relationship or even rekindle what’s been going on in an older relationship and maybe find a new spark.”

Over the past two decades, Amanda has carved her niche in a multitude of strengths related to Design, Psychology, Marketing and Self Growth while experiencing life from a myriad of different perspectives. Graduating from the Art Institute of Atlanta in Interior Design, she worked in Atlanta in a variety of design positions before returning to Georgia State University where she studied Education. She continued to study at the University in a variety of fields...Art History, Psychology, Business, Management, History, and World Cultures. After deciding to “grow up and get a real job,” Amanda began a wild and exhilarating adventure to her current observation post as a long time Human Relationship Observer.

It is the wide variety of experiences, along with her aptitude to think creatively, tactically and with common sense, that make her an Expert in the Dating and Relationship Field. She is a Down-to-Earth, Sassy, Southern, Thought-Provoking Speaker who will provide audiences with ideas that will inspire them and help them have better conversations and relationships.

Her Television, Print and Radio appearances include DailyCandy.com, Cosmopolitan Magazine, San Antonio Living, Fox Boston Morning Show, Charlotte Fox News Rising, Good Morning Memphis, Michigan Journal, Bay State Banner, and Uniqueness is Power. She has been awarded multiple awards from Toy Man Online including the Award of Excellence.

Always the life of the party, you will find Amanda flitting from one locale to the next with a big smile on her face, a story waiting to be told and another adventure about to unfold. She IS changing the approach that the young, cosmopolitan, career-driven individuals take in their dating life.
